Mt. Pleasant news notes

By ODELL CHAMBERS

A large crowd attended Sunday School at Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church Sunday. Sunday school begins here at 9:45 a.m.

The Senior Choir will rehearse tonight (Wednesday) at 6 p.m. A Bible study session will be held at 7 p.m.

We missed Deacon Chambers after he was recalled to work at the foundry last week.

We were sorry that Miss Candis Hix was hospitalized with an appendix problem. However, she has returned home.

Mrs. Helen Ligon, Mrs. Gracie Walker, and Mrs. Odell Chambers attended the program at Galilee Baptist Church last Sunday.

Our sympathy goes out to the Kelso family in the death of Mrs. Mary Kelso.

Anyone wishing to participate in the talent show the first Sunday in March at Mt. Pleasant should contact Mrs. Odell Chambers at 248-6230. The show is slated to begin at 3 p.m. March 4.

Don't fail to get involved

By WILLIAM L. TRIMYER

Lesson for February 26, 1984

Bible Study Passage: Isaiah 58:5-11

Introduction

As Christians we believe that God will ultimately triumph over evil and bring history to a glorious climax. There may be a danger in such belief, however. The danger lies in our failure to get involved in fighting evil before Christ comes back to claim his earth. It is easy to slump into spiritual snobbery and refuse to exercise our prophetic voice against injustice.

On another plane we recognize that God is our final resting place from the tragedy of loss and the threat of death. The brokenness we experience in life reminds us that we are fragile, and that in and of ourselves we have no word of hope within us. We recognize that without our hope in God we are doomed.

We would be barren as the desert were it not for the powerful presence of Christ. Without faith we would wonder aimlessly about in search of nothing. Faith is a stronghold against nothingness and despair. Without faith we could not hope. Without hope we could not trust and believe.

It is hope that moves us forward and prompts us to serve God.

A Missing Ingredient

Isaiah spoke out against the obsession with religious ritual. He spoke against a religion that boasted of piety and ritual but which was void of compassion for the needy. Some in Isaiah's day adopted the practice of fasting as a means of catching God's favor. While they were seeking to satisfy their spiritual appetites, they were neglecting their servants. They fasted to show their devotion to God, but they failed" . . . to loose the bands of wickedness, to undo the heavy burdens, and to let the oppressed go free, and that ye break every yoke."

Any religious ritual can become a substitute for righteous living. We may think that strict adherance to a religious ritual will gain us spiritual merit. But God does not look with favor upon those who ignore his demands for social justice. Too often we go though the motions of faith and neglect God's call to serve the poor and needy.

Blessings of Righteous Living [Isaiah 58:5-11]

The good news of the biblical witness is that God will bless those who turn from spiritual snobbery to serve him in the marketplaces. Isaiah told the people of Israel that their despair could turn to light if they were to believe in righteousness, that is to practice justice and compassion towards the poor.

Blessing is not unconditional. God expects a return on his investment! God asked for a complete change in Israel's social misbehavior. If Israel wanted to experience God's blessing they had to practice justice towards the poor and needy. Israel would experience a rebirth of her nation if the people served those in need.

The church today must heed the prophet Isaiah's warnings. There exists the possibility that we may seek to make faith a commodity of the elite, excluding the poor from our worship and our ministry.

Class members may wish to respond to the following questions:

1. Read Proverbs 14:34. What does this mean in light of Isaiah's warning?
2. What do you think this passage is saying to the church today?
3. As a class decide how you can minister to a needy person or family in our community.
4. Discuss some ways your church may become more involved in ministry to the poor.

Locals in All-Region Chorus

Appomattox County was well represented at the District III All Regional Chorus in Richmond last week.

Loyd C. Bird High School served as the host school. This event is sponsored each year by the Virginia Music Education Association. Students from all over the local district are chosen by auditions, making this one of the finest musical experiences possible.

The students spent Friday evening, and all day Saturday rehearsing with the guest conductor. Performances were given Sunday afternoon by the Workshop Chorus, grades 8 and 9 and the Senior Chorus, grade 10-12. Gary Shive was the guest conductor for the Workshop Chorus and Dr. Charles Davis, Professor of Music at Emery and Henry College conducted the Senior Chorus.

Fifteen students from Appomattox Middle School participated in the weekend activities under the direction of Ms. Sue Wright. Appomattox County High School had 16 students participating in the workshop and senior chorus. These students were under the direction of Steve Lawrence.

Regional chorus also provides an opportunity for 11th and 12th grade students to audition for All-State Chorus which will be held this year at Virginia Commonwealth University May 3-5. Three ACHS students, Mike McCoy, David Williams, and Rochelle Jones, will represent District III at All-State Chorus. Carolyn Carnefix was selected as a first alternate.
